Bedding and clothing can be a big factor in Eczema, because it rubs against our skin night and day-this is especially true for baby. Can you imagine being swaddled in a fabric that was itching you non stop. It would drive the little guy crazy. To make sure the bedding and clothing is in the best possible way for the baby, try to use things that are made from only the very softest 100 cotton, and keep it laundered frequently. The more frequently its cleaned, the less bacteria will have a chance to build up. Its also a good idea to make sure that any detergent used in the laundry is very mild and scent free. Another point is to bear in mind that your own clothing may also irritate baby, so avoid woolen fabrics and anything else itchy.
